

Overview

In a fast changing, strictly regulated and highly competitive energy market, Dentons delivers innovative solutions with significant experience across the energy sector around the world.

With many decades of experience in the energy sector, our dedicated team in Amsterdam covers all main areas such as corporate/M&A, finance, project development, environment/regulatory and tax.

Being part of the largest energy and infrastructure team in the world, comprised of more than 1000 lawyers globally, our Energy practice in the Netherlands taps into wide global resources facilitating direct access to Dentons' exceptional energy capabilities across the globe.

Focus areas:

- International – international energy-related matters constitute a large part of our Amsterdam practice. Our team is also actively involved in deals in Russia and the CIS countries, being important jurisdictions for the energy sector, as well as in such emerging markets as Venezuela, and in numerous countries in Africa, including Nigeria, South Africa and Angola.
- Renewable energy – this area is a large and important part of our practice. We work extensively on the development of solar, biomass, and wind projects, covering all the necessary corporate, financing, transactional, litigation and regulatory aspects. We have one of the top environmental permitting practices in the country.
- Energy tax – our practice is one of the market leaders in the Netherlands for energy tax, specialized in advising offshore energy companies on unique tax issues that apply to the industry. We have been at the forefront of designing creative legal structures to minimize tax liability for energy contractors.
- Energy finance – we have extensive finance capabilities and a dedicated team of finance lawyers with experience in energy and project finance. The team works on export, trade, and commodity finance, as well as on the financing of major energy projects.
- Commodities – among our clients are several of the world's top energy and commodities trading houses.
