

Overview

Our Professional Liability and Disciplinary Law practice consists of several teams which deal with specific aspects of professional liability. We focus primarily on professional liability cases involving estate agents, civil-law notaries, attorneys-at-law, curators, bailiffs and tax advisors.

We provide legal support for professionals in civil, disciplinary and criminal cases. We also apply our skills and experience to insurance disputes and advice, regulatory questions, investigations and media relations. By sharing and building our knowledge and experience - including with our close contacts in insurance companies and professional associations - we can deliver a tailor-made solution for every procedure and request for advice.

We attach great importance to personal cooperation with our clients and strive to achieve practical solutions that promote your interests. We take the view that every liability claim - given the diverse and often profound ramifications - calls not just for a judicial approach but a personal approach as well. Our clients include insurers, professional associations and independent professional practitioners.

In addition, we have a specialized team in directors' liability.
